

File a Claim

If you've lost your job in Michigan, you can File a Claim at the Michigan Department of Labor and Economic Opportunity's website.

Eligibility

You must be unemployed through no fault of your own, as defined by Michigan law. Here are the three primary ways you may lose your job and how each relates to your Eligibility for benefits:

- Layoffs due to "downsizing" or a reduction-in-force will qualify you for benefits.
- Firing for reasons related to misconduct makes you ineligible for benefits. However, if you're fired simply because you weren't a good fit or lacked the skills to perform the job, you may be able to collect.
- Quitting your job will make you ineligible for benefits unless you can prove there was a compelling work-related reason that forced you to leave (e.g., sexual harassment, dangerous working conditions, relocation with a military spouse), as well as significant mental health reasons.

You must have made a certain amount of money before losing your job, which is calculated by your base period. Your base period is the earliest four of the five completed calendar quarters before you filed your benefits claim. For example, if your claim was filed on Oct. 10, 2019, your base period would be the 12-month period beginning July 1, 2018, and ending June 30, 2019. In Michigan, in order to be eligible, you must meet the following wage requirements:

- You must have wages in at least two quarters in the base period.
- You earned at least $2,871 in your highest quarter.
- In the total base period, you must have been paid at least one-and-a-half times the amount of wages you earned.

Michigan offers an alternative base period that looks at your four most recent completed quarters.

You must be able to work, available to work and seeking employment. If you find a suitable position, you must accept it. Suitability varies depending on your skill set, training, salary and more. Over time, if you still haven't found work, you may have to compromise on a job that doesn't quite match what you were doing before.

Duration of Benefits

Michigan residents can collect unemployment benefits for a maximum of 20 weeks, with additional weeks during times of very high unemployment.

Weekly Benefit Rate

You may receive a maximum of $362 per week as well as $6 per week for each dependent, up to $30.
